

UNCOMMON WISDOM FOR MODERN TIMES

rabbit redux

Banish the bland, waxy bunnies of Easter baskets past. Real Simple tasted more than 30 rabbits from across the country (a tough job, but someone's gotta do it) in search of connoisseur-level quality and adorableness. This half-pound, solid-milk-chocolate hare—handcrafted at a Vermont candy kitchen called Laughing Moon Chocolates—took the prize. Thanks to a heaping helping of cocoa butter, it's supremely creamy. And its cute quotient rivals that of any storybook cottontail. $10, laughingmoonchocolates.com.

FOR MORE WINNING RABBITS from our Easter-bunny road test, scan this photo, or go to realsimple.com/chocolatebunnies. (Find scanning instructions on page 26.)

EAR-ESISTIBLE

According to the National Candy Association's Chocolate Council, 76 percent of consumers start munching the ears first.